IMAREST launches their branch here in the Philippines and the oath taking of new members at the AMOSUP Conventional Hall Intramuros, Manila with the theme "Safety of Life at Sea".

In the first part of the program which is the Introduction of International Profession Organization, Capt. Richard Teo explains about the Nautical Institute and that he is hoping that the Philippine branch is actively doing activities in the Philippines with increasing sponsorships.

David Kelly, the director of IMARES Asia Pacific, illustrates the different details about the program and talks more about their company. After Mr. Kelly's presentation is the oath taking of new IMAREST members.

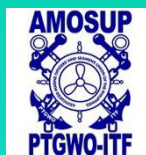

Engr. Ocampo, talk is about the navigating of the navigators and its stand for automation leaving the people a question, "what if the seafarers are no longer required to be in the vessel in order for the vessel to travel from one port to another?"

In the second part which is the Technical Presentations, Capt. Yashwant Chhabra dis-cusses extensively Risk Management and Human Factors in Shipping. He also discusses the incidents and accidents through his mari-time legislation. Dr. Angelica Baylon' presenta-tion is all about building one's global compe-tencies for global maritime industry. She pre-sented two challenges in the maritime industry which is the quantity, pertaining to qualifica-tions and quality in competency. She tackles about the enhancement of maritime education and training while inspiring the people to be a member of IMAREST and NI to avail the vast oceans of opportunities that the two can pro-vide.

Chief Engr. Rudolfo Palso states the de-velopment of the engines propelling the vessels sailing across the oceans of the world. Lastly, Engr. Necesio Crisaldo discusses the climate change and the Philippine experience to climate change leaving the people the question, "is it too late to prevent climate change" then continue discussing how the maritime industry contribute.

The messages and presentations of each speakers are well explained to the audiences. The program lasts for almost seven hours and became successful as well as the launching of the IMAREST Branch here in the Philippines. ■
